Google account, you can use all of the Google Calendar features. If you do have a Google account, you can sync your calendar with your mobile device and your computer. Google Calendar is Google's free web-based calendar application, which can be used on your computer, mobile device, or other devices. Google Calendar is best used to keep up to date on what you have booked in to your business's calendar. As a business, you might use Google Calendar to keep track of your clients' appointments, as well as to keep up to date with your own meetings. If you use Google Calendar for your own work, you might use Google Calendar to find out if you have a meeting in a particular time slot.

Features of Google Calendar

Calendar view Web version of the Google Calendar lets you see what's going on in your calendar. You can use the web-based calendar, or you can view your appointments on your computer. You can also see what your contacts have booked in to their calendars, so if you have a friend who is looking for a wedding date, it's an easy way to find that time and date. Google is constantly improving on its web-based calendar. Google Calendar has an updated layout, making it easier to use, and you can save time by saving your search history. Google Calendar also has automatic reminders, which can tell you when you've booked something important, and when you've booked too much time in a given day. Book and schedule Google Calendar can track your bookings in several ways. You can find what you have booked into your calendar from your web calendar's sidebar, from within your calendar view. You can also find this information from within your

Google Calendar app, which comes preinstalled on your Android device. Calendar views You can view your calendar
