Q: Display image in main.m view I want to display an image (which is stored in my application bundle) in main.m. Is this possible and if so, how? Edit: the image is stored in the application bundle, not in the Documents directory. A: The application bundle is not special. You can store whatever you want inside it. If you have a nice looking image I would recommend adding it to your resources and accessing it using UIImage imageNamed:. You can do it in interface builder. A: Just add your image file in your Xcode.
